

Applied Research In Economic Development

A joint publication of ACCRA - The Association for Economic Development Researchers and Analysts and
The School of Economic Development at Georgia Southern University
(GSU) College of Business Administration

2003 ACCRA Leadership Executive Committee

President

Mary Graham

President-elect

Gary Brackett

Secretary-Treasurer

Melissa J. Armstrong

Immediate-Past President

Philis P. Intro

Vice President

Jeffrey Blodgett

School of Economic Development 2003

Dean

Dr. Ronald Shiffler

College of Business Administration

Georgia Southern University

Director

Ben Thompson, J.D.

Director

Coastal Rivers Water Planning and Policy Center

Editor

Dr. Phyllis Isley

Director

Bureau of Business Research and Economic Development

Editorial Board

Jeff Blodgett

Mary Graham

Michael D. Hicks

Rhonda Phillips

Tom Tveidt

Phyllis Isley

Applied Research 2003 Volume 1, Number 1

Articles

Page

“Planning Lessons Can be Learned:
What Economic Modeling Tells Us
About the Economic Development
Process in the Knowledge Economy”
Phyllis Isley

2

“Demonstrating the Wage Impact of New Jobs on A Regional Economy”
John Lombard

16

“Comparison of Florida Metropolitan Statistical Areas Using the Metropolitan New Economy”
Timothy Lynch

28

“Is Retail Trade a Focus for Real
Economic Development in the Knowledge-Based Economy?”
Lay James Gibson

44

“Underemployment in the Savannah
Area Laborshed”
Jeremy R. Hill

56

Mission Statement

ACCRA - ACCRA stands for excellence in research for economic and community development. With nearly 500 members from 48 U.S. states and 4 Canadian provinces, ACCRA is the single largest national organization dedicated to economic development and policy research. ACCRA members are involved in economic and market research.

SCHOOL OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT - Educating a new generation of professional economic developers to meet the challenge of global competition and to make a difference.