

Article Review

Complete APA bibliographic reference:

McCray, A. (2001). Not all students learn to read by third grade: Middle school students speak out about their reading disabilities. Journal of Special Education, 35 (1), 17-30.

Four or five descriptor names that best describe the topic:

Main: Learning disabilities, Reading motivation, Reading skills, Special education

Type of Article: Qualitative Research

Levels: Middle School (6-8)

Briefly stated major purpose(s) of the article:

This study was designed to assess the perceptions of reading held by middle school student with reading disabilities. The researchers looked at students' perceptions pertaining to their reading ability, reading instruction they had received, their involvement with that reading instruction, and reading instruction that might improve their reading ability.

Research article – summarize the major findings in 2-4 sentences:

This study indicates that middle school students with reading disabilities are interested in learning to read and that they understand the importance that reading plays in later successes.