

Article Review

Complete APA bibliographic reference:

O'Brien, P. (2001). Celebrating journeys: In journals, letters, and postcards. Challenge, 93, 35-37.

Three to five descriptor terms that best describe the topic:

Journal writing, journal reading, writing

Type of Article:

Other: Literature Review

Levels:

Upper Elementary (4-5),
Middle School (6-8), High School (9-12)

Briefly stated major purpose(s) of the study:

This article explores how students can utilize their imagination to create original work and as well as organize their ideas for writing. It further explains how students can learn from their own experiences in formulating ideas, reading and utilizing research material.

Research article – summarize the major findings in 1- 4 sentences:

The article explains how teachers can follow the curriculum and at the same time, help students understand that their life experiences can be beneficial when they use their imagination in creating journals, letters, and postcards for communicating their ideas and original stories.

--