BIOGRAPHY

Jennifer J. Brown

Jennifer Brown is a Lieutenant with the Michigan State University Police Department. Lt. Brown is currently assigned to the Special Events Division where she is responsible for planning, staffing and maintaining records of over 1100 events on campus each year. She began her career with the department in 1996 and spent nine years assigned to the Patrol Division as an officer and sergeant. She was assigned to the Investigative Division for two years before being transferred to the Special Events Division.

Since her assignment began in Special Events, she has worked closely with Michigan State University Police Emergency Management Division to apply the principles of emergency management to all special events on campus. She works regularly with federal, state and other local law enforcement agencies to ensure safe and secure events. In addition to her responsibilities in the Special Events Division, she participates on many campus committees, supervises the department background investigation unit and is a coordinator at the local police academy.
