Course Description: An overview of the biology of marine mammals (cetaceans, pinnipeds, sirenians, otters, and polar bear) including evolution and systematics, zoogeography, aquatic adaptations, life history and reproduction, population dynamics, diet and feeding, diving physiology and additional topics. Prerequisites: Three semesters of biology including marine biology or marine ichthyology or permission of instructor. Five semester hours credit (3/2).

Suggested Materials (Suggested But Not Required):
3) The following items are not required but are strongly recommended: colored pencils, bound notepad, clipboard, three-ring binder, stopwatch, suntan lotion, hat, binoculars, and camera.

Regular Class Hours:
8:30-11:30 AM (10 minute breaks at ca. 9:30 and 10:30)
1:30-4:30 PM (10 minute breaks at ca. 2:30 and 3:30)
* All field activities on boats have an 8:00 AM departure

Class Etiquette: During class, you are expected to behave in a manner that is conducive to a positive learning environment – both for yourselves and your fellow students. Please turn off your cell phones and i-Pods during class, and use computers only if you are using them appropriately (i.e., to take notes). Also, do not carry on conversations not relevant to course material with other students during class. Any student(s) causing a disruption during lecture will be asked to leave. Please be on time for class. Repeated disturbance, absence, or tardiness may result in a penalty to your grade.
Academic Dishonesty: Academic dishonesty (cheating) will not be tolerated, will result in a grade of “F” for the course, and will be immediately reported to the appropriate authorities of the GCRL, University of Southern Mississippi, and your home institution.

Course Grades and Evaluation: There will be two in-term exams and one final exam in this class. All exams will be comprehensive, and will be short answer in format (short essay, fill-in-blanks, labeling, crosswords, definitions, drawing, problem-solving, identifications, etc.). Questions will be drawn from lectures, labs, assigned readings, and videos shown in class. Some exam questions may require students to extend their knowledge beyond material presented in class. Questions from field activities and student presentations will also be asked. Journal entries are intended to summarize observations made during field activities. Each student will also prepare one review paper and one oral presentation on topics approved by the instructor (and discussed in class). Please note that dates are subject to change (notice will be given in class).
