Carnegie Community Engagement Reclassification

What is Community Engagement?

Community engagement describes reciprocal partnerships between campus and community members that are designed to serve a public purpose and to build the capacity of individuals, groups, and organizations involved to understand and collaboratively address issues of public concern.

Examples of community engagement:

- Service-learning
- Community-engaged (or community-based participatory) research; research conducted in collaboration with affected communities
- Community advisory councils
- Outreach activities that serve an authentic community-identified need
- Opportunities for students to engage with community and reflect on civic participation
- Free or low-cost services to the community

Elective Classification for Community Engagement 2015, 2020, and 2024

368 Currently Classified Institutions

● Private ● Public ● Closed ● Consolidated

CLASSIFICATION ATTAINMENT FROM 2024: All Institutions

Number of Public, Research 1, Community-Engaged Institutions

Reclassification:

The re-classification documentation framework is intended to facilitate an evidence-based reflection process that focuses on what has changed to improve community engagement since the classification.

It is designed to incorporate narrative replies indicating institutional commitment and excellence through deep, pervasive, and integrated processes and structures, as well as explanations of changes from the previous classification.

The narratives are designed to address:

1. What currently exists,
2. Changes since the last classification, and
3. Relevant supporting evidence

- USM lacks a campus-wide, systematic mechanism for
 - Gathering feedback from community partners
 - Limits the university's ability to address community's needs
 - Limits interdisciplinary and multi-stakeholder collaboration on societal issues.
 - Publicizing community-engaged activities

Strategic Plan 2025-2029
