Winchester lands $60M ammunition contract from Homeland Security

Winchester Ammunition, which has its manufacturing facility in Canton, has won a five-year contract to produce ammunition for the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS). The company has received an initial order of $60 million to support training, law enforcement and other federal agencies that require a wide variety of ammunition.

Learn More

Pewsey Electronics Reorganizing Under New Globalization Plan

Pewsey Electronics Corporation is reorganizing its worldwide marketing, engineering and production to better serve customers. The company has also appointed a new vice president of sales and marketing to help drive the reorganization.

Learn More

Travis Rettinger At Head of Mississippi World Trade Center

Barbara Tate is stepping down after nearly two years as the executive director of the Mississippi World Trade Center. Travis Rettinger is the new executive director at the center. The Mississippi World Trade Center is a member organization that brings international trade and economic development resources to the state.

Learn More

"There's Always A Solution": Interview With Lt. General Robert Ruark

Lt. General Ruark is a retired general of the United States Army. He served as the commander of the U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command.

Learn More

 payroll in terms of millions of dollars annually. Logistics needs quickly change and we need to react quickly to ensure we are getting the right product to the right place at the right time.

Learn More

Marines Emphasize Advantage of Sea Basing

Marines emphasized the advantage of sea basing, which allows them to conduct operations from the sea, rather than from land or air.

Learn More