Universities Unite expertise to benefit Mississippi education, business, industry

By: Andrea Lea / The Clarion-Ledger

Published: 1/5/2022 1:35:04 PM

The University of Southern Mississippi Center for Logistics, Trade and Transportation and the Mississippi State University - Research Curriculum Unit are partnering to develop an "Intermodal Transportation Curriculum for Secondary Education" as a pilot study.

"This is a real-world project that will bring important knowledge into the classroom for our children's bright future," said Dr. Yutio Gozahara, director of the Center for Logistics, Trade and Transportation. "It's important for our schools to share this knowledge to give additional job opportunities to our children."

For more on this article, click HERE to go to the USM website.